ANTI-JAPANESE BILLS NO LONGER MENACE TO NATION

California Assembly Yields to Pressure Brought to Bear by President Roosevelt.

VOTE IS RECONSIDERED

Action Is Yet to Be Taken by Senate on School Exclusion Measure. No Alarm Felt.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 10.—Yielding to the pressure brought to bear by President Roosevelt and Governor Gillett, the California assembly retired from its previous position on the anti-Japanese matters today, by reconsidering the former vote on the segregation of Japanese students in the public schools and finally repealing the measure by a vote of 41 to 37. An effort by the supporters of the bill further to reconsider was lost by a tie vote, and the assembly is now clear of any anti-Japanese measure objected to by the national administration. The fight for the suppression of the bill was won only after many hours of heated debate on the floor.

Struggle Continues All Day.

The struggle started at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, on the presentation of a resolution by Assemblyman J. P. Tranmore of Los Angeles, affirming the right of the state to govern its schools, but withdrawing the Japanese segregation issue because of the President's objections to it, and lasted until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when Grove L. Johnson's motion further to reconsider was defeated on a tie vote, 39 to 39.

The school bill is still to be considered in the senate, having been presented there by Senator A. Caminetti. At there is little chance that the measure will be approved when brought up.

"I am highly pleased with the action of the assembly today," said Governor Gillett.

"The [illegible] has been simply complied with, and I feared that if the anti-Japanese legislation were pressed at this time it would have a disastrous effect."

Johnson Leads Anti-Forces.

The anti-Japanese forces in the assembly were led today by Grove L. Johnson, author of the segregation bill on which the fight hinged, and Louis W. Julliard, Democratic floor leader while the opposition was directed by Transue and Richard A. Melrose.

Governor Gillett said tonight that the next matter to be taken up by the assembly would be the proposed appropriation of $10,000 for the compiling of a census of Japanese in California. He said that if, from the data so gathered, it were found necessary to do so, Congress would be urged to enact an Asiatic exclusion measure.

"Under the agreement between Japan and our government," said Governor Gillett, "the former is pledged to restrict immigration as much as possible.

"If Japan had grounds for abrogating this arrangement and decided, in view of unfriendly acts upon the part of the California legislature to remove these restrictions upon the emigration of her people, all our ports would be open to the latter. If then we went before Congress and asked the vast for support for a general Asiatic exclusion law, the latter might advance the adverse argument that we had the situation well in hand at one time, through federal negotiation, and lost our advantage by the acts of our legislature against the wishes of the President and secretary of state."

Exchange Congratulations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The following telegrams were given out at the White House tonight without comment:

Sacramento, Feb. 10, 1909.

Japs Leaving U. S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The number of Japanese of all classes who left the United States for Japan in December, 1908, exceeded, by nearly 900, the number who entered this country during the same month. These figures were given out today by Kokichi Midzuno, Japanese consul general here. The Japanese who returned from this country to their native land during the month in question numbered 1,007, according to the consul's figures. Of these, 905 were males, and 102 females. The number of Japanese who came into this country during the same period was 113 males and 187 females, of whom one-fourth were of the student and merchant class.

Plunges Over Precipice While Driving Snow Plow—Accident on Uintah Railroad.

GRAND JUNCTION, Feb. 10.—While plowing through the heavy drifts at Baxter pass, on the Uintah railroad, an engine and snow plow, rounding a sharp curve on the down grade, plunged over a 300-foot, precipice, killing Engineer J. E. Lane and fatally injuring a Greek section hand. Four other workmen, whose names are unknown, were seriously injured. ROYAL SOJOURN NOT VISIT OF COURTESY

KING EDWARD IS ENDEAVORING TO IMPROVE RELATIONS.

Extended Private Conference Between Sir Charles Hardinge and Prince Von Buelow.

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—Great weight is lent to the political significance of King Edward's visit, in consequence of the extended private conference which Sir Charles Hardinge had this evening with Prince Von Buelow. The subjects under discussion have not been made public, but the fact that the British undersecretary of the foreign office was closeted with the imperial chancellor is regarded as highly important as it indicates the royal sojourn is not a mere visit of courtesy, but is intended to influence the future political development between Great Britain and Germany.

The king today sent to Chancellor Von Buelow a [illegible] of magnificent [illegible] of himself and the queen.

The emperor and king and the emperor and queen took tea in a brilliant court ball in the white salon of the palace tonight. The imperial princes and princesses, Chancellor and Mrs. Von Buelow, the members of the Prussian cabinet with their wives, and the diplomatic representatives, including the American ambassador, David Jayne Hill, the leading military officials and many prominent in civil life, were present.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The reception that has been accorded King Edward and Queen Alexandra in Berlin is causing the greatest satisfaction to British officials and the public. The welcome by the populace is regarded even more than the official ceremonies as an opportunity for the introduction of better feeling between the two peoples.

NORTH IS SUFFERING FROM AWFUL STORM

REPORTED TO BE THE WORST BLIZZARD IN 20 YEARS.

Northern Nebraska, South Dakota, the Black Hills and Northern Wyoming Are Visited.

NORFOLK, Neb., Feb. 10.—Traffic and all business in northern Nebraska, South Dakota, the Black hills, and Northern Wyoming, was abandoned from Monday night until noon today, because of the worst blizzard in 20 years. The snowfall in the Black hills and Wyoming reached 10 inches on the level.

A 50-mile wind drifted the snow many feet deep in places. Temperatures ranged from eight to 20 below zero in this region. Telegraph and telephone lines were prostrated. Not a train wheel moved on any of the five lines radiating from this city nor over this entire territory, 700 miles across between midnight Monday night and 8 o'clock this morning.

Near Plainview, Herman Taylor, a prominent stockman, became exhausted while caring for his herd, and perished from exposure.

Many cattle froze to death en route to market.

DECIDED IMPROVEMENT IN POSITION OF SILVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—According to statements today by leading dealers in silver bullion in this city, there has recently been a decided improvement in the position of the white metal. The price has advanced about 5 cents from the level recorded early in the winter, due largely, it is believed, to increased consumption of the metal in China and India.

LABOR CAN NO LONGER DOMINATE STATE ASSEMBLY

So Declares Speaker Lubers to the Surprise of Union Members—Majority Rebels.

HICKS AND HELBIG BILLS

Discussion of Measures Occupies House During Afternoon Session. Senate Accomplishes Little.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 10.—Labor members of the house were infinitely surprised this morning when a majority rose in rebellion against their domination. This surprise need not have been complete, if the members had only read aright the denunciation of their methods Monday afternoon by Speaker Lubers, when he addressed the house in committee of the whole on the initiative and referendum. He told them then that he was tired of their manner of trying to control all legislation, and took a position flatly against some of their demands.

The row this morning came up when House bill 142, by Rubin, to amend the employers' liability act, came up. The discovery was made that a clerk had made a slight error in the wording of the bill—nothing of any moment, and something that unanimous consent could have corrected. It was taken as a proper time for giving the labor men a jolt. Hence Mr. Parrish moved to recommit the bill to committee of the whole amendment. This was carried by a vote of 36 to 37, and raised a storm of protest. Mr. Rubin declared he believed the members had not understood the motion, and he wanted a reconsideration. Mr. Doyle of El Paso, obligingly made the motion to reconsider, which was hauled as obligingly permitted to be [illegible]. At this juncture the speaker, who had been looking over the rules as though trying to find something to fit the case, announced that he had discovered all the proceedings were out of order. "I find," he said, "that the bill, not having been [illegible] is still not before the house for third reading. I will rule that it retains its place on the calendar and goes over for a day until the engrossing committee's work is properly performed." So ended the lesson.

Poor Chance of Passing Senate.

During the debate, Mr. Rubin admitted that any of the labor legislation stood a poor chance to pass the senate, that his effort was merely to have it get clear of the house. It is safe to predict that the labor men will hereafter remain with the friends with whom they were aligned at the opening.

Reprinting of the long bank guarantee bill was ordered, as Mr. Stephens, chairman of the bank committee, reported that each section had been amended in some respects and many had been entirely rewritten. Mr. Garman suggested that the bankers, who had so much to do with having the amendments made, pay a part of the expense of the reprinting, if there was no way to force them, someone might pass the hat. Mr. Stephens has been asked by the bankers to give them another hearing on the bill, and will likely do so.

Speaker Lubers stated that a new resolution would probably be presented in the senate for the election of a committee to investigate election affairs in Huerfano and other counties, so he would delay filling the house positions on the present committee. The senate intends to have an investigation made during the interim between assemblies, the report to be made to the Eighteenth.

Don't Want Pinchot.

Little ceremony was displayed in defeating the DeLong resolution to ask the governor to invite Gifford Pinchot to address a joint assembly on the question of forest reserves. The resolution was read and a motion at once made to lay it on the table. As discussion of that motion is prohibited by the rules, the matter was disposed of without even an attempt at debating it. The vote to lay on the table carried by 51 to 11.

One bill was passed on third reading—that to increase the number of the employes of the senate and house.

The house went into committee of the whole at the opening of the afternoon session, to consider the Hicks and Helbig direct primary laws, the first named being under discussion.

The first move was by Mr. Bell, who moved that the authors of the two bills be made a committee to compare them and see if they could not report back one bill. He realized that the authors had tried to do the work properly, but it was difficult, and, with the discussion already had, he thought they might be able to settle all disputes and reach an agreement that would be accepted by the house. These bills would drive many prospective candidates out of the field, as they provided for doubling the expense of running for office—every man would have to pay for two campaigns. He also found that the first section would render impossible, unless amended, any of the sections later that provide for nomination by petition.

Bear Baskets Should Pay Freight.

Mr. Hartman held to have struck out the portion which excepted canned fruits for presidential electors [illegible] to [illegible] provisions. He thought these should go before the people just as other candidates. It was urged against his position that electors were chosen in June, long before the September primaries, but he held they should have a special primary, and pay for it themselves, if necessary, as those who want honors should pay the freight. His motion was defeated.

Lubers objected to the provision giving each precinct a delegate in the state convention, holding it would make them unwieldy. Mr. Hicks thought the present practices was about that and the discussion dropped.

Mr. Helbig moved to substitute an amended section 1 of house bill 252 for section 1 of No. 2, but withdrew it after some discussion in which he took occasion to show that Hicks' bill provided for conduct of municipal elections held at the same time as state elections, and declared that no such were held in this state. "It looks," he added, "as though this bill was drawn for some other state."

Lubers Objects.

Mr. Lubers objected to section [illegible] which provides for candidates filing their intention to become candidates before the primaries, holding that if there the matter too wide open. It is now difficult, he said, at an election, to select the men for whom you wish to vote out of the large number put on the ballots. It would be much more difficult under the section for the primary. Some ridiculous nominations already creep into the ballots men who announce their candidacy [illegible]

TAFT AND SHERMAN DECLARED ELECTED

CONGRESS COUNTS ELECTORAL VOTE IN JOINT SESSION.

Appointment of Guests First Function of Term of Taft and Bryan—Impressive Ceremonies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—With simple, but impressive ceremonies, the counting the electoral vote for President and vice president occurred today at a joint session of the Senate and House, held in the chamber of the lower body.

William H. Taft of Ohio and J. S. Sherman of New York were officially declared to be the choice of the people for the term of four years, beginning March 4 next. The count consumed exactly 40 minutes.

Vice President Fairbanks, who presided, announced that applause would not be permitted. This followed Democratic manifestations over the mention of the name of William J. Bryan, in connection with the vote of Alabama, the first state called. The Taft adherents, nevertheless, disregarded the admonition and liberally applauded the first mention of his name when the California vote was announced.

As the votes of each state were opened, they were handed by the vice president to the four tellers, Senators Burrows and Bailey and Representatives Fluhs and Russell, who proceeded to count them. The count concluded, the result was announced to the presiding officer, showing 321 electoral votes for Taft and Sherman and 162 votes for Bryan and Kern. The vice president then inquired if there was any protest against the vote as announced, and there being none, he formally announced the election of Taft and Sherman.

The joint session then ended, the members of the Senate returning to their hall for the regular transaction of business.

TWO MEMBERS OF NEW NAVAL COMMISSION

JUSTICE MOODY.

ROBLEY D. EVANS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Among the members of the newly-named commission to reorganize the navy none stands out more prominently than Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans and Justice Moody, former secretary of the navy. The new commission is composed of the strongest and most experienced men whose lives have been especially fitted to suggest reorganization of the navy.

Justice William Henry Moody fills a very important place on the commission, for, in addition to his experience with the navy as secretary of that department from 1902 to 1904, he has had a vast legal and commercial experience which will serve the commission to advantage.

Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans is today one of the most practical and experienced authorities on naval affairs in this [illegible]. "Fighting Bob" has [illegible] of his profession, was [illegible]

NEW ORLEANS PLANS A ROYAL RECEPTION FOR TAFT

Civil and Military Parade Will Follow His Arrival in the City This Afternoon.

SHIP SAFE AT SOUTH PASS

President-Elect Sends Wireless Message to Reception Committee. Voyage Was Uneventful.

PORT EADS, La., Feb. 10.—Via New Orleans—The North Carolina and Montana, with President-elect Taft and his party on board dropped anchor off South Pass shortly before 3 p. m. (central time).

The President-elect sent a wireless message during the afternoon, saying that the Birmingham would meet the New Orleans reception committee eight miles below the city at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A civil and military parade will follow the arrival of the President-elect and Mrs. Taft, and tomorrow night they will occupy the box of honor at the Old French Opera house, where the Elks of the region will give their annual ball. Friday morning, a reception will be tendered the President-elect under the auspices of the colored Y. M. C. A., and Friday night a banquet will be given by 1,000 citizens of New Orleans.

Voyage Uneventful.

Mr. Taft's voyage was uneventful, with the exception of the disabling of the machinery of the Montana last Monday, the second day out from Colon. As a result of this accident, it became necessary for the Montana to fall behind until repairs could be made and when these were completed a hawser and chip had to be maintained by the Montana for a day in order to overtake the North Carolina.

Mr. Taft spent the time during the voyage at work on his inaugural address. The engineers completed their official report which will approve the Gatun dam as at present planned, as well as the Colon harbor breakwater.

BELL ON TRIAL FOR KILLING MAN WHO STOLE HIS WIFE

Unwritten Law Is Not Offered in Defense of the Act—Afraid of Bodily Injury.

DENVER, Feb. 10.—Burdette Bell, on trial for the murder of A. Cuvier Dury, an actor of Cincinnati, O., for whom his wife had left him, today went on the witness stand in his own behalf. No effort was made to raise the "unwritten law" in Bell's defense. Bell discovered his wife and Dury together in a Curtis street rooming house.

"Dury pushed me against the wall and choked me," said Bell in answer to questions by his lawyer. "The thought came to me that he would do me bodily harm and perhaps kill me and run away with my wife and little baby. I wanted to get into the hall and talk it over with him. After the shooting which followed then, I went down to the police station and gave myself up.

Previously, Bell had testified that his wife had confessed to him the night before the shooting of her relations with Dury. Mrs. Bell told her husband that Dury got her located and that this and her intention to go on the stage had led to her downfall.

SANTA FE WANTS TAXES BACK; WILL FILE SUIT

DENVER, Feb. 10.—Formal demand was today made by the Santa Fe railroad upon former Secretary of State Timothy O'Connor for the return of $7,623.72 paid by it under protest in May, 1907, as a flat tax. The demand is the first step in a suit which will be filed by the company to recover the money. Attorney General Barnett, on behalf of the state, will also file suit to compel Mr. O'Connor to turn over the money to the state treasurer.

GIRL LEAPS FROM SIX-STORY WINDOW

ENDS LIFE IN SPECTACULAR MANNER AT DENVER.

Miss Brierly Suicides Because of Apparent Misunderstanding With Her Sweetheart.

DENVER, Feb. 10.—Miss Violet Arlee Brierly, 23 years of age, and the stepdaughter of R. A. Powell of the Powell Brokerage and Commission company, deliberately jumped out of a sixth-story window of the Mining Exchange, corner Fifteenth and Arapahoe streets, at 10:15 o'clock this morning. She died three hours later in the county hospital, turning several times in the air, she struck the sidewalk in front of the main entrance of Lyon & Johnson's office, on the Fifteenth street side of the building, before the horrified gaze of scores of pedestrians. Both her legs were broken and besides she sustained internal injuries which caused her death at 1:30 this afternoon.

That Miss Brierly was not the victim of an [illegible] to kill herself is a fact established without the question of a doubt, Frank A. Miller, treasurer of the Hall Construction company, with offices on the fifth floor of the Mercantile building, across the street, saw the young woman raise a window in the law office of George J. Humbert in the Exchange building, climb out, feet foremost, and then deliberately slide on the window sill.

The stepfather of Miss Brierly declares himself unable to throw any light upon the affair, though he is inclined to believe that the young woman sought to end her life while temporarily insane. He is authority for the statement that during the past few weeks she has been subject to hysteria and under the care of a physician.

Miss Brierly had been engaged to O. M. Wood, a student at the State Agricultural college at Fort Collins, Colo. She had not heard from him in several weeks, and brooding over this fact is supposed to have been the cause of her suicide.

SALARY OF SECRETARY OF STATE MUST BE REDUCED

This Course Necessary in Order for Knox to Accept Portfolio in Taft Cabinet.

SENATE ACTS AT ONCE

Hale Introduces Resolution Providing That Official Receive $8,000 Instead of $12,000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Following close upon the discovery that Senator P. C. Knox, could not without violating a provision of the constitution of the United States, accept the state portfolio in the Taft cabinet, the senate today took prompt action to remove the constitutional objection. Senator Hale introduced a resolution, which was referred to the committee on the judiciary, providing that the salary of the secretary of state be reduced from $12,000 to $8,000, the figure

[illegible]

[illegible] at which it was [illegible] increased, [illegible] of all [illegible] meet effects [illegible]

[illegible]

In view of the [illegible] Attorney General [illegible] fully [illegible] and is not [illegible] [illegible]

"It is a [illegible] of construction [illegible] applied by the supreme court to [illegible] that a thing may be [illegible] and yet without [illegible] the decision of [illegible] the supreme court [illegible]:

"Nor can [illegible] investigating the [illegible] the powers conferred by the [illegible] upon Congress [illegible] to keep in view the object for which these powers were granted. We do not expect to find in a constitution minute details. It is necessarily brief and comprehensive.

"If the increase is made and [illegible] used, the representative or senator [illegible] not be appointed; if, on the other hand, it is made and then unmade, he can not get, or hope for anything more than if there had been no such increase.

Outside Purpose of Law.

"In my opinion, therefore, the plan presented falls outside of the purpose of the law and is not within the law."

Senator Hale said today there is no thought on the part of senators of increasing the compensation of the secretary of state after March 4, 1911, when Mr. Knox' term in the senate would have expired had he served until his close. He said it is the purpose of Mr. Knox to serve throughout the four years of the Taft administration at a salary of $8,000.

Facts Hardly Plain.

The facts are by [illegible] plain. There is no dispute about them. Senator Knox was [illegible] elected for a six-year term, which will [illegible] expire until March 3, 1911. The constitution prohibits the appointment of a senator to an office created or the salary of which has been increased during the term for which he was elected. So the question is whether, under this uncontrovertible state of affairs, Senator Knox can lawfully succeed Robert Bacon as secretary of state on March 4, unless the salary be reduced to the original figure. It is quite evident that the senator himself was a good deal perturbed by the springing of this question at this moment. He has denied himself to all callers, but is advising with his personal friends, and especially those of a legal turn of mind.

THE GAG MAY BE APPLIED IN SENATE

SENATOR LODGE WOULD HAVE SPEECHES CENSORED.

Resolution Offered to Prevent Senator Tillman Speaking His Mind Regarding President Roosevelt

By Skeldon S. Cline

WASHINGTON Feb 10—After more than a century of absolutely free and unbridled speech the United States senators are to be gagged and their speeches censored provided that Henry Cabot Lodge the erudite senior senator from Massachusetts has his way. He proposes to insert in the rules of the senate a provision that no senator in debate shall refer offensively to either of the other co ordinate branches of the government or to the other branch of the congress. In other words the senate's manners must bring up to the Lodge standard he proposes to enforce good manners by rule.

A lot of indignation has been expressed by senators over the Lodge resolution and it does not appear to have the support even of Mr Lodge's fellow Republican senators. It is alleged the purpose of the resolution was to prevent senator Tillman making his promised speech attacking President Roosevelt. While senators generally admit it would be desirable to prevent any abuse of the President by the South Carolina senator they object to the idea that the Senate as a whole needs a muzzle or that senators as a rule need to have written regulations for guiding them in proper conduct. If senator Lodge presses his resolution therefore it promises to have a thorny path before it.

May Have Bad Effect

Older senators deny that there is less courtesy in senate debate today than formerly. They contend as a matter of fact that great senators of the past were much more inclined to indulge in unpleasant personalities than are senators of the present, and they insist that President Roosevelt has had to endure no more aggravating attacks than have some of his predecessors. The further point is made that Mr Roosevelt will not suffer in any way from anything Senator Tillman may say against him and it is argued that for the President's friends in the Senate to attempt to gag Senator Tillman might be construed as if dictating the President's course. If the measures the South Carolinian has threatened to make.

While these considerations have weight the chief objection to the Lodge resolution is that the senate does not feel called upon to gag itself through fear of what one of its members may say about President Roosevelt or about any one else. Even those most friendly to the President realize that while administrations may change senators always hope to stay on till death and that the time might come when the gaggers would find he gag an unpleasant mouthful.

End of Cruise in Sight

There is every reason to believe that March 4 will see the end of the "Crum case." One of the early acts of Mr Roosevelt as President was to nominate Dr Crum a negro for the office of collector of customs at Charleston S C. The South Carolina senators supported by senators from other southern states succeeded for nearly two years in preventing confirmation but action finally was forced in January, 1905. His four-year term being about to expire, President Roosevelt reappointed him and sent the renomination to the senate for confirmation. The fight against him is just as bitter as ever it was and as there now remains less than a month of the session there is hardly a possibility of confirmation.

Unless action is taken before March 4 Mr Taft upon becoming President will find the collectorship at Charleston vacant. Southerners in Congress are confident he will not renominate Dr Crum, or any other negro. They reason that he would recognize it as a mighty poor way to begin his campaign for Republicanizing the South. While more or less personal objection to Dr Crum has been urged upon the senate as reason for not confirming him it is candidly admitted that the chief objection to him is that he is a negro and as Charleston is about the most aristocratic city of the entire South it has been especially galling that a negro collector should have been appointed for that port.

Bull Run battlefield, near Manassas Va where was fought the first battle in the war between the states may be purchased by the federal government and converted into a national park. Senator Daniel of Virginia has introduced a bill appropriating $50,000 for purchase of the land and the matter is regarded as so important that the Senate committee on military affairs is planning a trip to the battlefield.

Bull Run is nearer to Washington than any of the other great battlefields of the civil war and its conversion into a national park doubtless would attract many thousands of visitors to Manassas. Already many monuments have been erected on the field to the memory of soldiers who fell there but they stand on private grounds.

Prediction is made in Washington that one of the first men to be given a good job by President Taft will be Judge L R Wiley formerly of the United States court at Shanghai, China. Wiley retired after charges had been made against him and he had been vindicated by Congress. He was formerly attorney general of the Philippines and Mr Taft is known to have a very high regard for him. It is expected a place will be found for him on the federal bench in this country.

WILL OFFER RECORD OF EVIDENCE IN HARRIMAN CASE

Ollie M. Grand A. Stickney on the Stand at Hearing Conducted in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 10.—After devoting two days to hearing testimony regarding the I. C. C. and general business, of the Harriman lines and as to the evidence of such merger by the elimination of former competitive conditions, it was announced today that tomorrow the attorneys in the case would before Special Examiner Sylvester G. Williams enter on the record various excerpts from the evidence submitted before the Harriman hearing in the interstate commerce case.

The railroad commissioner, Gothlin of Columbus, was on the stand most of the morning and his experience brought out a number of points desired by the government. Several witnesses reported little business with Knight solicitors, because the consignees govern the route of shipments. Almost without exception all testified that since the union of the Union and Southern Pacific agencies there had been no preference shown in asking business by such agents as between those companies.

ECZEMA LODGES IN THE SKIN

Not a Blood Disease—Cured by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

For many years eczema was supposed to be a blood disease and was erroneously treated as such but now the best authorities agree that eczema is only a skin disease and must be cured through the skin. The eminent skin specialist, Dr D D Dennis, first discovered the eczema germ and his discovery was quickly taken up in both Germany and France.

To kill the eczema germ and at the same time heal the skin, Dr Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen thymol, glycerine etc. The remedy is a liquid not a mere salve hence it sinks right into the pores of the skin. Washing with this oil of wintergreen compound seems to take the itch away at once, soon the scales drop away and the disease disappears. The prescription has now been used so long as to have proven its absolute merit and we do not hesitate to express our confidence in D D D. Prescription. The Robinson Drug Co.

REV. KEANE DENOUNCES CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Thinks Well Enough of It as a Science, but Sees no Christianity in It.

DENVER, Colo., Feb 10—The Rt. Rev. J J Keane of the Catholic diocese of Wyoming, tonight made a vigorous attack upon the teachings and principles of Christian Science and Unitarianism in his address to a large audience at the Auditorium.

He stated that Christian Science teachings denied every essential tenet of Christianity. He said that the growth of Christian Science showed more clearly than aught else the necessity for religion to all men or women, otherwise no one would have grasped such frail and flimsy religious support as that taught by Mrs Eddy. These statements were brought forth by the question asked from the audience, "What do you think of Christian Science?"

Bishop Keane replied:

"I think a great deal of the science, but I can see no Christianity in it. Christian Science denies every essential tenet of Christianity. It denies the personality of the Godhead and even denies the reality of sin."

In answer to questions, Bishop Keane also argued against the teachings of Unitarianism.

$1,000 POSTED TO BIND KAUFMAN-JEFFRIES MATCH

NEW YORK Feb 10—According to a story published here today Billy Delaney has posted $1,000 with Al Smith as stakeholder to bind a match for the world's heavyweight pugilistic championship between Al Kaufman and J J Jeffries. According to the report Delaney, who once handled Jeffries, believes Kaufman can defeat Jeffries, and is willing to allow the $1,000 to go as a forfeit for a $10,000 side bet. Delaney is quoted as saying that in all the fights he has never permitted Kaufman to extend himself, desiring to teach him all the fine points of the game. Now he considers Kaufman to be fit to do battle with any man in the world.

POOR MATERIAL EXHIBITED IN BOXING AND WRESTLING

DENVER, Feb. 10.—The bouts in the heavier divisions of the contest of the Rocky mountain amateur boxing and wrestling championships, which were held at the Denver Aathletic club tonight, brought out a poorer class of material than was shown in the lighter classes. All of the bouts were fast, but in many science played but a small part.

The exception was shown in the bout between R Lafever and J Linn in the middleweight division. Both men showed exceptional class and speed, and the judges were unable to give a decision at the end of the third round and qualified both men for the semi-finals.

NEW INDEX SYSTEM OPENS A GOLD MINE

LIBRARIAN IS WORKING ON CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Will Be Available for Ready Reference When Stupendous Task Is Completed.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

A veritable gold mine of general information is now beginning to be opened up through a systematic indexing of the Congressional Record It will make the ordinary encyclopedia seem like a small work in comparison This gold mine has more than half a million pages, at least one-half chock full of information but nothing except a subject index can make its contents available Imagine the contents of a modern encyclopedia with all its subjects jumbled together without order or system and you will have a miniature picture of the 1,000 volumes which constitute the record of the things said and done in the 60 Congresses that have met. But now it is all to be systematized and through card indexes made available for daily reference The subject index that is to make it so is being prepared by the librarian of the House of Representatives, John J Boobar, and his assistants

During each of the 60 Congresses that have held sessions there have been anywhere from 100 to nearly 500 members. Those have been men among men the choice of their constituents Each of them has sought to promote his own interests and to advance the cause of his party and has brought the best contribution within his power to enrich the Congressional Record. With over 6 000 picked contributors nearly every one with a specialty handling his self-chosen subject like a specialist with the debates taking the widest possible range It is easy to see what a mass of information lies in the Record waiting to be put in available reach by the Boobar index This will be an index of speakers as well as of speeches which makes it still more valuable

Faithful to Smallest Detail.

To show the thoroughness with which it is prepared it might be said that to index the speeches of the Fifty ninth Congress alone required more than 20-000 cards It is faithful even to the smallest detail and its cross references are abundant enough to enable even the amateur to find that for which he is seeking "Last winter John Wesley Gaines, who represents the old Andrew Jackson district in Congress and Representative Burleson of Texas has a set-to over the mistletoe Burleson declared it a parasitic plant that harms the trees on which it grows The knightly soul of Gaines was shocked to its core with such talk, and he proceeded to rattle the very embiasoned skylights of that historic hall with his eloquence in defending the mistletoe from the insidious attack, and in declaring it the fairest flower in the garden of love That gem of oratory might as well be buried in the sands of the Sahara as to be left in the Congressional Record without a subject index With such an index the world will always be able to find this memorable defense of the mistletoe

Not long ago Champ Clark was discussing all things in general and the tariff on art in particular He is an observing man and called the attention of the House to the fact that an Indian in a picture in the rotunda of the Capitol had been painted with six toes It was the picture of the baptism of Pocahontas and from that day to this every Washington tourist has had those six toes pointed out to him by the Capitol guides The new card index is faithful in even so small a matter as this

Took Up Work as Pastime

Mr Boobar took up this work more as a pastime than anything else He was appointed librarian in 1900 from Minnesota and brought to his position a remarkable fund of energy He says that no attache of Congress is worked so hard as to be in danger of nervous prostration from overwork and that he thought the best way to utilize his spare time was to be doing something useful So he fell to indexing the proceedings of the current session of Congress. He has kept this up until he now has a complete index to both sessions of the Fifty-ninth Congress and of the first session of the Sixtieth During his spare time he is going back to index the Fifty-eighth Congress

Card indexing is about as tedious as a business as one can very well imagine It is like feeding a furnace with a teaspoon But Boobar and his assistants have been faithful at the task They expect to continue this work as the sessions pass and even if they are not able to carry it back to the beginning they will catch all the good things of the future The librarian and his staff are getting no extra pay for their work Whether they ever get any or not they propose to carry the index through the coming years and back as far into the past as their time will allow Boobar's attitude is this What boots it whether I ever get any pay I am doing my best to make a good index, and if I succeed in that I shall have rendered a great service whether I am paid for it or not" He hopes to do his work so well that Congress may eventually decide to have the records of all past congresses indexed and will give him men to do it

Stupendous Task

Anyone who has had anything to do with card indexes must appreciate the stupendousness of that task Cruden's Concordance is recognized as a work of monumental proportions, and yet it was but a pleasant little diversion as compared with the indexing of the proceedings of 60 congresses. Many a single session fills 10 000 pages of closely printed matter, and each Congress has two sessions at least A single session may turn out ten 1 200 page quarto volumes Of course the first congresses were not as words as some of the more recent ones A single octavo volume suffices to give a synopsis of every speech delivered in both sessions of the first congress

The value of a card index of congressional proceedings to the country at large can be readily illustrated In every important community there are bound copies of the congressional record covering many years but not so useful as they might be if properly indexed Congress can authorize duplicate lists of the cards printed to be given, or sold at actual cost, to the various newspapers and libraries which have card indexes and thus make the record a sort of community encyclopedia Think of what it would mean to the student of the tariff to be able to get a complete index of the congressional debates from the beginning and to the student of finance to get a complete index to the discussions of the money question When the historian comes to write the history of the Panama canal, what a fund of information he would have at hand did he have a subject index of congressional debates on interoceanic canals

Debates Are Indexed

There is, and has always been an index of the Congressional Record But so far as indexing debates according to subjects is concerned it is no index at all The only way one can possibly find all that was spoken on a given subject in a given session is to go laboriously through the index of the doings of each individual member of the Senate and the House And there are nearly five hundred members To the ordinary investigator its usefulness is very limited Recently a young man was sent to the House library to look up some speeches on woman suffrage He had no idea who had delivered them and no idea in what Congress they were delivered. It was impossible for the librarian to find what he wanted so long as it was not known who had spoken on the subject That has always been the fatal flaw of every index of congressional proceedings ever prepared

There is no form of job that has been worked harder than the index job The proceedings of Congress are voluminous beyond anything the average individual dreams of Beyond the record there are hundreds of documents, reports and the like printed In all there are some five hundred books added to the literature of the country by every Congress To make every fact in every one of these volumes available for ready reference is a vast task, and Congress is in the habit of buying every sort of index that is offered to it, on the ground that each one possesses some good point, and that after awhile the man will come upon the scene who can unite the good points of all into one index covering everything that Congress has done from the beginning.

Cannon Lost His Patience.

For years Congress had on its staff a set of men who were indexing the documents of the past congresses They frittered along with that job so long, without showing any appreciable result, that at last Speaker Cannon lost patience and resolved to send the whole crew away, bag and baggage Then he declared that so long as he was in Congress, such a thing should not happen again And it hasn't There are indexes of every kind and description, indexes of the record indexes of the journals, indexes of documents, indexes of reports—indexes in such rich profusion that it takes a small sized volume to adequately index the indexes In one instance a prominent newspaper correspondent of the bygone generation prepared an index of documents There were many good thing about it but with many subjects it was as easy to go through the unindexed record itself and find what was wanted as to find it through the index Yet the newspaper correspondent got $40,000 for his manuscript

The recent editions of the Revised Statutes have a little marginal addition which will be appreciated by every lawyer and federal judge throughout the land It shows the number of the bill upon which the law it accompanies was based, and whether it originated in the Senate or the House It is often essential to the correct interpretation of the law that the debates that preceded its passage should be studied Under the old system if required hours of patient investigation to find those debates The investigator had to first find the date of approval then find the particular approval and from that finally locate the number of the bill upon which the law was based Then he was ready to trace the history of that bill The addition of the marginal reference eliminates all that This reference was placed there at the instance of Mr Boobar

gence This would open the matter for those who merely sought advertisement of themselves This section, he said, would bring more discredit on the bill than any other, unless it was the section that designed to turn the primaries over to the newspapers and take them from the people

HISTORY OF A FAMOUS REMEDY

[illegible] Growth from the Start Was Simply Due to the Fact That It Would Invariably Effect a Cure

Every industry has its pioneer days and it is during these struggling times that its worth and merit are tested The early history of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy shows that, except in point of merit it had no more hope of success than other similar preparations, which were started at about the same time, but were never known outside of their own locality and have long since ceased to be manufactured Step by step on a journey of five years its superior excellence became more widely known it has been gradually gaining in favor. Taken first, perhaps, on the [illegible] by some family, who found it good, it was recommended by them to a neighbor; they in turn passed it on to other friends and for over thirty five years its reputation has in this manner been spreading until it has reached the uttermost corners of the earth Science and advanced medical authority during all this time have failed to produce a better remedy for coughs, colds and croup, and today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is enjoying the largest sale of any similar preparation on the market This result can be attributed to no other cause than its sterling worth No matter how much prominence an article may receive through the medium of advertising, it must be worthy to hold the confidence of the public. In the case of [illegible] this remedy is the main reliance of parents in attacks of croup Not only does it always give prompt relief, but it also gives permanent relief to the [illegible]

THE CENSUS BILL VETO.

EVEN the most vigorous and uncompromising of President Roosevelt's journalistic opponents are complimenting him on his veto of the census bill passed by Congress a few days ago. So many offices which were formerly filled by Congressional appointments have recently been transferred to the civil service list that Congress eagerly seized at the opportunity of saving for itself the big patronage plum contained in the decennial census bill. Next year the thirteenth Federal census is to be taken and the work will require an army of canvassers, clerks and other employes. It is stated on good authority that the failure to appoint these employes under civil service rules at the census of 1900 entailed a needless expense of fully $2,000,000, and the President does not intend that this shall be added to the spoils system shall be repeated next year.

The bill passed by Congress makes a pretense of adherence to the civil service system, but really is the flimsiest sort of an evasion. It provides for the appointment of census employes on the basis of non-competitive examinations instead of through the Civil Service Commission, and leaves the appointment to members of Congress. This means that the bill, if it became a law, would enable each Congressman to appoint a number of his retainers to petty political jobs for which they would qualify merely by passing an examination conducted in private and without competition. So far as the civil service principle is concerned the whole proceeding would be a mere farce.

[illegible] is not carried away by a [illegible] of its affection for the [illegible] President just now, but it is hardly [illegible], in its attempt to pass its census bill over his veto merely to "relieve" him further. In this matter, as in the other [illegible] which he has recently differed with the legislative branch, public sympathy is entirely with the executive, for nothing could be plainer than that the bill is designed solely to promote the personal interests of the members by [illegible] their political patronage. Ten or twenty years ago the affair would have excited less comment, but now the trend of public sentiment is steadily toward a still further extension of the civil service principle, and against any reversion to the spoils system with its manifold evils.

The taking of a census is a tremendously important task, requiring the services of thoroughly competent men, for a vast amount of exact information must be gathered, compiled, and prepared for publication. It is easy to see how the cost could be lessened and efficiency reduced if the men who are to perform this work are chosen merely because of party service and without regard to special fitness. It is not often that Mr. Roosevelt uses the veto power, and the fact that in this case he has it against his own party is all the more noteworthy, but there is no question that he was entirely justified.

POLITICAL ANIMOSITIES.

SAYS Harper's Weekly:

Another thing Signor Ferrero said just before he sailed is this:

There is one thing which I envy you and this is the absence of rancor and hatred in your political, social, racial and religious disputes. In Europe when we are arguments we hate each other; in America political or religious enemies can be personal friends. Our rivalries are so old, so deep seated, often the results of bloodshed; our vendettas are fierce, implacable. So far as I have been able to judge, you Americans of today know nothing of such bitter strife. And therein you are happier than we.

He had spoken before of the comparative absence of hatred in this country. Any reader who wants to know on what sort of conditions are based the hatreds which he deplores in Europe is invited to turn over the page and read a letter from Italy about the Austrian domination of Bosnia and Herzegovina. A day or two ago it was in the papers that Poland was to be partitioned again in some new detail. How Finland has felt toward Russia will be recalled. Russia is full of hates. All southeastern Europe seethes with hatreds, the hatreds of peoples compelled to submit to government which they detest, or restrained from inflicting that kind of government on someone else. Even England, where ideas of freedom are advanced, has incurred hatred from the Irish on grounds which impartial observers are constrained to respect. Only a few of us habitual Americans realize wherein we are better off than most folks, and it is useful to us to have an observer like Signor Ferrero come and tell us. Presumably we are a great people; undoubtedly we are greatly blessed, and should realize it, the better to safeguard our blessings.

Not the least of the blessings for which Americans may be thankful is that they do not take their politics as seriously as some of the Europeans to whom Harper's Weekly refers. For we are everlastingly at the political game; one campaign is no sooner ended than we begin to get ready for the next. Everybody goes into it heart and soul, and everybody works himself into a state of mind before election day that makes him firmly convinced that the salvation of the country depends on his party's victory. It is quite the proper thing to hate the other fellow on the other side, call him all execrable names, and say everything mean about him that can be thought of.

But thank heaven, all this is entirely transitory. With the dawn of the day after election it vanishes like a summer cloud. The winners usually manage to accept victory without being unduly puffed up, and the vanquished accept defeat with a smile and a hope for better luck next time. Perhaps it is the saving sense of humor that is found in the make-up of nearly every American; at any rate it is our salvation, for otherwise with so much politics every ward and precinct in the country would be the center of a fierce vendetta.

THE LEGISLATURE AND MR. PINCHOT.

COLORADO'S aggregation of statesmen and law-givers, assembled at Denver, yesterday declined by a vote of 56 to 11 to pass a resolution asking Gifford Pinchot, Chief of the Government Forest Service, to address the Legislature in regard to the questions at issue between the state and the Forest Service. It is hardly likely that this discourtesy will offend Mr. Pinchot in the least, but it is to be regretted for the reason that such a meeting might pave the way to such a settlement of the difficulties as would be beneficial to both sides.

The Government Forest Service is working earnestly and intelligently to save what remains of the standing timber and to re-forest the devastated areas. In carrying out this program it has encountered the opposition of a great many people whose private interests are at variance with the public interest, and these individuals have succeeded in kicking up a furore that has extended to the Legislature. Now that worthy aggregation proposes to go ahead and enact a few laws calculated to hinder the forest service. Somebody with a little more commonsense than the majority proposed to ask Mr. Pinchot to address the Legislature before this was done, and in the hope of settling the disputed questions amicably. But of course this was too sensible, so it was voted down. Now we shall see with what wisdom the State proceeds to settle its own forestry problems.

CUBA'S DESTINY IS IN HER OWN HANDS.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Cuba is free again—free to control her own affairs, free to work out her destiny as a nation. She has paid a pretty penny for her fling of insurgency—enough perhaps to make her think a long time before she allows lawlessness to prevail again.

The American administration of the island's affairs has been a striking example of good government. Yellow fever has been stamped out again, the postal service and rural guard have been improved, and large schemes of public improvement have been begun. Gov. Charles E. Magoon has again proved that Americans are equal to any emergency; and seems to have performed his difficult task with unusual tact and real ability.

The conduct of the American troops who have served for years in the Army of Cuban Pacification has been admirable. So that, on the whole, Cuba has to thank the United States for an invaluable service.

But the expense of the American troops will amount to more than $6,000,000, and this in addition to the amount that must be paid on account of the damage done to property and persons by the insurgents; and the millions of dollars loss caused by the general disturbance in business. This will add considerably to the public debt, which is already large in proportion to the effective population. But Cuba is a rich and fertile island, and the restoration of peace and good government should bring a prosperity that will put its government on a firm financial basis. Then its destiny is in the hands of its own people, who can decide whether they prefer stable government to continual insurrection, revolution and lawlessness, which can only end in annexation.

THE TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

An article in last Sunday's Gazette in regard to "Disrespectful Children" has especially attracted my attention, and since there is a request for other mothers to express their opinions on the subject, I venture to give a few thoughts.

In the first place, we are living in an age when many parents are too busy or too careless to give their children the proper attention they are entitled to, and very often they leave them and the children almost entirely to the care of servants who allow them to have their own way too much. There is no guardian for a child like its own mother, provided she is what she ought to be, and she should teach the child lessons of love and obedience as early as possible. A child who has learned to obey is spared much annoyance and unpleasantness for itself as well as others. To learn how to obey is to develop strength of mind and character. Instill in the young mind the beauty of truth and say to your boys and girls: "Come on, let's do." Instead of "Don't." Never tell a child not to do anything when it sees you doing the same thing day after day. Josh Billings used to tell us that the Bible taught us, train up a child in the way it should go, and he also adds that we had better go that way two or three times ourselves. Children are naturally imitators, and they are sure to imitate the things they see their parents doing, so if we would have well-behaved children, we must set the example.

Make a companion of your child, enter into its pleasures and create a fondness for good reading. Many a time did I take my little boy when he was just old enough to understand, out into the fields and woods where he could see the beauties of nature, and there in some secluded spot would I read aloud to him, many a helpful and instructive story.

As the child grows older, watch its associates, as one should do from the first, and keep it off the streets. Herein lies the secret of many a child going wrong. When stopping in one city not long ago, I was told that it had very few good girls, and upon inquiry into the case was informed that the mothers lost control over their children when they began to "run the streets." Factory work took up most of their time, and after working hours recreation was sought away from the good influence of home. Such is a sad fact, if true, and mothers should realize the importance, before it is too late, of keeping their children off the streets where bad companions are ready to join them and teach them the evil of the world. See that good companions are chosen or none at all, for evil associates ruin do much of the good home influence. Environment shapes destiny as well as education. Give the children the best of things you can, and teach it independence of thought and action. Keep your child close, but not too close, and see that it is made happy in its home. Give all the encouragement you can, and if you talk as though your child was going to amount to something in the world, nine chances out of ten, it will. I know of one place in California where unruly and troublesome boys are sent to a private home for discipline and deportment. The lady in charge has no trouble in dealing with these boys. They are most polite and act like little gentlemen. In fact, they are told that they are going to make great men in the world some day and must now act according to that and in this they are given encouragement for a right course of living. These boys become both happy and obedient and no trouble whatever arises. They are taught to respect others as well as themselves, and surely politeness goes a great way towards commanding respect.

Now, in conclusion, I would advise that parents take their children into their confidence and never deceive them in any way at any time of life. Always tell them the truth and they will never deceive you. Never let it be said: "If father or mother had only told me," when you have given and done everything else you can for your child. As a rule, parents do not take their children into confidence soon enough. Where this is done, children are not apt to go astray. The first case has yet to be recorded where a child has gone wrong with the proper knowledge given in time. Herein lies the safety of young womanhood and manhood. Point out the evil results of sin and also of smoking and drinking. Keep the heart pure as well as mind; let it be religiously inclined; trust in God with high aim in life to accomplish some great good in the world, and, with motives like these, it will be hard to find any disrespectful children to write about.

A MOTHER.

THE POLICE AND AUTO-SPEEDING.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I see by your paper of the 9th that you are after the Denver motorists for speeding on Cascade avenue. Now, it would be all right to have a law as you say. But what good is a law when it is not enforced? Almost any hour of the day you can see racing in the north part of town and any day you can see fast driving at Pikes Peak avenue and Tejon street, done by people that live in Colorado Springs. And where are the police? Leaning up against some building entertaining some lady friend; or two or three of them will be seen in a sunny place talking of some good time they have had the night before.

Now it is not well to be forever making laws and then not enforcing them. In a city of any size you never see the police standing around having a good time with the girls. While on duty they are not allowed to talk to anyone except to answer questions, and when that is done they politely step to one side and go on their way. It seems to me that the police of Colorado Springs are more for show than to protect the life and limb of the people from the wild rush of the automobilists as they tear through the crowded streets. Now, if the charter convention could frame some clause in the charter that would compel the chief of police to enforce the laws instead of allowing his men to draw their money and stand on the streets for a show, or talk to girls, the charter convention would do one great thing for the good of Colorado Springs.

PROSPERITY NOTE FROM MAINE.

From the Kennebec Journal.

Friends of a generous Auburn woman are having no small amount of fun at her expense. While passing down the street a few days ago she observed a man seated in a doorway, his hat on the step beside him. Thinking that he was begging, she dropped a dime into his hat, but the man was only tying his shoe lacings.

A PORTENTOUS DAY.

From the Woodbury Georgian.

Last Sunday afternoon Woodbury became quiet and sad. It seemed as though something fearful was going to happen. One could almost feel it in the air, but about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, just as it seemed the climax would be capped, we saw Mr. Clarence Thompson walking down the street with a brand new pair of shoes. He received many congratulations.

DON'T LET THE DIMPLE PEEP.

Now, do not blame me, Dolly,
I will not bear one word;
And if there's any scolding,
'Tis I who must be heard.
What did you think me made of?
Am I a doll, a sheep?
Ah, Dolly, if you'd not be kissed
Don't let that dimple peep.

Sport frocks of every color,
For you are always fair;
Don hats that waken wonder
And set the world a-stare;
Break every wise convention;
Make Mrs. Grundy weep;
But if you wish me to behave—
Don't let that dimple peep.

You've license to be cruel,
Although it is a shame;
And you may term me stupid
At every sort of game;
And doubt me, Dolly; flout me,
And all contumely heap;
But if you'd have an humble slave
Don't let that dimple peep.

The things you like I'll do them
Obey your slightest wish;
I'll sacrifice digestion
Before your chafing dish;
I'll follow all caprices
With desperation deep.
But, fascinating maid, beware—
Don't let that dimple peep.

'Tis idle to be angry,
Nay worse 'tis sinful, too.
About an act so harmless
Why make so much ado?
One way's the only safe way—
'Tis very hard to keep.
Yes, Dolly, if you'd not be kissed,
Don't let that dimple peep.

GETTING A LIGHT.

Evolution of the Modern Electric Cigar Lighter From the Flint and Steel.

In these days of electricity, when the simple turning of a switch gives instant light and heat, a glimpse of great-grandfather starting the morning fire would seem the funniest sight imaginable. The night before the red coals in the fireplace were carefully buried beneath the gray ashes so that they could be raked out and fanned into a flame when the next fire was needed. The old gentleman, in the cold gray morning, dug out the living coals and carefully piled fine shavings on them. Then he blew them industriously with the hand bellows, not too hard lest he blow the shavings away. As soon as the light fuel began to burn he piled on small fat-pine sticks and then larger wood until the fire roared in the chimney with all its strength.

If the coals were neglected the night before and the fire went entirely out, as sometimes happened, it was often necessary to go to the neighbor's and borrow a shovelful of coals. But if the householder had flint and steel he made a fire with these crude implements. With the flint held firmly in the left hand he would strike it a smart but glancing blow with the steel, resulting in a shower of sparks. These sparks were caught on a dry piece of half burned cloth, because the charred ends of such cloth were easy to set fire. As soon as a spark was caught it was nursed and blown into a flame from which the fire was lighted.

Since the beginning fire has been the most sacred possession of man. Fire came with the very beginning of civilization. It was worshiped by the men of the east and the half-savage Aztecs and Incas of the west.

Fire Was a Precious Possession.

In those ancient days it was very difficult to obtain fire and among the savages men were toiled off to tend the fires and to carry the live coals from place to place. Many of the American Indians could not make fire at all and either obtained their sparks from neighboring tribes or from trees struck and fired by lightning. Once the fire was obtained it was never allowed to go out. Other savage tribes produced fire by friction. The fire drill, used by American Indians of the north, which whirled a pointed stick of hard wood in a shallow crevice of a dry block of softer wood, was a good source of fire so long as it was kept dry. The drill revolving with great rapidity raised the temperature of the wood dust in the crevice until it burst into a flame.

Then came the flint and steel which proved the handiest way of getting a light for hundreds of years. Even in the memory of some of the older folk of today the flint and steel were in daily use. When it was found that a bit of jagged flint, struck with a piece of steel, would emit a shower of bright and intensely hot sparks, then fire building became easy. Sparks from the flint would set fire to tow, to charred rags, to gunpowder or to most any combustible material.

The first matches were made of thin strips of highly resinous or dry pinewood, about six inches long, the pointed ends of which were dipped in melted sulphur; thus prepared, the sulphur points easily ignited when applied to a spark obtained by striking fire into tinder from a flint and steel. Then someone invented the "instantaneous light box." This consisted of a small tin box containing a bottle, in which was placed some sulphuric acid, with enough fibrous asbestos to soak it up and prevent its spilling, and a supply of properly prepared matches. Those primitive matches consisted of small splints of wood about two inches long, one end of which was coated with a chemical mixture, prepared by mixing chlorate of potash, six parts; powdered loaf sugar, two parts; powdered gum arabic, one part; the whole colored with a little vermillion and mixed with water until it became a thin paste. The splints were first dipped into melted sulphur and then into the prepared paste. They were really made to burn by dipping the prepared ends into sulphuric acid.

First Matches Were Expensive.

In the year 1822 a peculiar match was introduced. Phosphorus and sulphur were carefully mixed in a glass tube tightly corked. A splinter of wood was slipped into the tube, a small portion of the mixture was drawn out, and when this was exposed to the air it ignited and set fire to the wood. John Walker, a druggist in England, invented the first really practical friction matches, giving to them the name of "Congreves." They were of thin strips of wood, or cardboard, coated and dipped with sulphur and tipped with a mixture of sulphide of antimony, chlorate of potash and mucilage. But they cost twenty-five cents for seven dozen of them.

"It was not until about the year 1833 that the friction method of obtaining a light began to be developed, and friction matches came into use.

Matches are common enough today and already other inventions are taking their place. Electric cigar lighters are provided at nearly every cigar stand as a substitute for matches which take too much time. The electric lights are rapidly superseding the old oil and gas lamps, which require matches, and even the faithful old cook stove is being replaced with an electric cooking outfit which produces plenty of heat without fire or flame and without matches or fuel. The electric cigar lighter, which is the very latest method of obtaining a light, consists primarily of a few turns of German silver wire stretched behind a non-conducting screen of mica or embedded in heat resisting cement. Electricity passing through this wire makes it red hot which in turn heats the [illegible] so that a cigar or cigarette, pressed against it, instantly catches fire. Some of these cigar lighters are operated by a push button and others are so economical that they are always hot and one need not even push a button to get a light.

Previous to using them I had suffered for some time from excruciating pains in the small of my back, often extending to my shoulders. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the D. T. IN FEBRUARY.

Maidens fair with eyes devout
Don their veils and hurry out.
Soft! What can they be about,
In February?

Never ask them to delay
If they run to kneel and pray,
If they seek new hearts this day
In February.

Follow now their flying feet:
Who is this they run to meet?
Who the stranger laughing great
In February?

Are these roses on the snow
That they gather as they go?
Nay—they're picking hearts, I trow,
In February.

Who, then, is this pedler Jack
Crying: "Maidens, what d'ye lack?"
Scattering hearts from out his pack
In February?

Have you guessed, sweetheart of mine,
That they welcome Valentine?
Thief! He stole your heart and mine
Last February!

FROM THE BIG HAT.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

The feminine hat with the dangerous reach, the headpiece with the spear-like feather, and the creation which obscures the scenery from view will soon be no more. Chicago milliners have banded as the Milliners' association with a resolve to wipe out the giant hat evil, and with the motto, "Mutual protection and more artistic millinery."

"By means of our organization we will put an end to the cut-throat tactics employed among milliners," said Mme. Marie, elected president of the association at the Palmer house last night. "By this means, and by turning out more artistic hats, we will be able to uphold Chicago's reputation as the millinery center of the country."

A WORKING RELIGION.

You say that you are religious, that you belong to the true church, that yours is the true faith, faithfully handed down from the sacred past? And I say to you that I care not in the least. The question of supreme importance to me and to all others is "What are you doing with your religion?" or "What is your religion doing with you?" The test of religion is the degree of forcefulness of which it is capable and which it is exerting. Faith, formula, tradition, beauty, are all secondary and subservient. Is your religion a working force in your life, making you better, and your fellows better, and the world better?

GAMMON FOND OF NEW COUNTY SEATS

TO CARVE BOONE COUNTY FROM THREE OTHERS.

El Paso, Douglas and Elbert Residents Up in Arms Over Proposed Measure.

Residents of El Paso and Elbert counties, who are vigorously opposing the formation of the proposed new county of Holt by a consolidation of the northeastern portion of El Paso county with a section of Elbert county, were stirred to an even higher pitch of indignant protest yesterday when information was received from Denver to the effect that an attempt is being made to further reduce the area of these counties by the creation of a second new county—the county of Boone.

According to information received by Judge L. W. Cunningham who with R. L. Chambers is representing the opposition to the Holt county proposition, a bill has been introduced in the legislature and is now before the committee on counties and county lines, providing for the creation of the county of Boone from the northwest section of El Paso county, the western section of Elbert county and the southeast section of Douglas county.

Elbert to Be County Seat.

Plans have been made to establish the county seat of Boone county at Elbert, where Lem Gammon, representative from El Paso county has extensive interests, owning a large general merchandise store and a grain elevator. There is a report in circulation to the effect that he has made the promise that if the new county of Boone is created, that he will double the capacity of his store and elevator. The new county would take in the towns of Calhan, Eastonville and Peyton, a plan which citizens of those places do not regard with favor.

An investigation in Denver yesterday failed to disclose the specific provisions of the measure, but the foregoing information came from an authentic source. Until the bill is printed, it is probable its provisions for the creation of the county of Boone will not be made public.

Residents Indignant.

The residents of El Paso, Elbert and Douglas counties are indignant over what they declare is a deliberate attempt on the part of Representative Gammon to serve his own interests at the expense of the welfare of the county, and by throwing a burden of increased taxation upon its citizens. They point to the effort being made to create the new county of Holt with its county seat at Ramah where Gammon practically owns the townsite, as evidence conclusive of their contentions. They say that the population in the affected districts is not large enough to support new counties.

Merchants to Take Action.

The Holt county proposition will be threshed out tonight when representatives of both sides of the proposition will discuss their claims before a special meeting at the Merchants association of Colorado Springs at the Alamo hotel. The opposition has appealed to the Merchants association to assist them in defeating the measure. So great is the interest in the new county proposition, that indications point to a record-breaking attendance. The Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday joined the county commissioners in protest against the Holt county proposition.

The total assessed valuation in the new county of Holt would be considerably less than $1,000,000 according to figures compiled by County Assessor F. F. Schreiber. At the prevailing rate of taxation in El Paso county, the new county would have but $6,750 to carry on its business.

HUSBAND FINED $20 FOR BEATING HIS HELPMEET

When C. H. Bixby and his wife, Edna, after two years of married life, decided to live apart, the husband sold the furniture, which he promised to give Mrs. Bixby, and assaulted her last Tuesday, when she protested, according to the wife's story.

She swore out a warrant against her husband in Justice O. R. Dunnington's court, and Bixby was arrested yesterday morning by Constable Harvey Gillingham. The husband was fined $20 and costs, and appealed the case to the county court.

PRELIMINARY HEARING ON MURDER CHARGE

Paul Essick and Piper Will Probably Waive Examination and Demand Bail.

Robert E. Piper and Paul Essick, son-in-law and son, respectively, of the late Charles P. Essick, who have been in the county jail for several days as a result of action of the coroner's jury in holding them for the murder of the aged Woodman clerk, will have their preliminary hearing before Justice O. R. Dunnington at 10 o'clock this morning. It is understood that they will waive examination and that a transcript will be taken at once to the district court, where their attorney, Judge James A. Orr, will apply for bond. It is said that Assistant District Attorney M. W. Purcell will object to releasing the prisoners on bail.

The prosecuting attorney has taken no action with respect to Mrs. Flora Essick, the widow of the dead man, who is charged by the coroner's jury with having a guilty knowledge of his alleged murder.

Coroner Law has signed the death claim for the insurance of $2,000 carried by the late Woodman clerk in that order. This policy is payable to Mrs. Cora Cook, daughter of the dead man. Another policy for the same amount is made out in favor of the widow.

CHILDREN DEMAND PAYMENT

Heirs of Conrad Rausch, Who Killed Wife and Suicided, Want Cash on Insurance Policy.

An echo of the double tragedy in Colorado City January 1, 1907, wherein Conrad Rausch killed his wife, Minnie, and then committed suicide, comes in a complaint filed in the district court January 21 of this year, in which Mary and Minnie Rausch, aged 15 and 12 years, respectively, daughters of the couple, demand through their guardian, Anna M. Workhausen, $2,000 and interest, from the Grand Circle, Women of Woodcraft, on an insurance policy on the life of their mother.

According to the complaint, the father, Conrad Rausch, was the beneficiary of the policy, but by the double death the money is due the two children, as the sole heirs-at-law. The complaint alleges that the insurance certificate, together with the original death claims, are held by J. L. Wright, grand clerk of the fraternal order, and that payment is refused.

DARWIN AND LINCOLN WILL BE REMEMBERED

Meeting Under Auspices of Colorado College Will Honor Birthdays of Both.

Colorado College will commemorate the centenaries of Abraham Lincoln and Charles Darwin at Perkins hall on Saturday evening. The addresses of Professor George I. Finlay will be of especial interest to all who feel an interest in the life and character of Darwin. He will speak not only of the life and character of Darwin and his place in the world of thought, but on the general problem of evolution, and Darwin's theory of the origin of species. He will also give an account of the criticism directed against the Darwinian theory.

In the interest which centers about the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, many have forgotten that the same day is the centennial anniversary of the birth of Charles Darwin, the great scholar, whose scientific work wrought such a profound revolution in the scientific, philosophic and religious thought of the world in the last half of the nineteenth century.

FLORENCE ROBERTS

It is an indisputable fact that in the great crisis of the average human life not more than four people figure vitally Playwrights are beginning to realize this fact and concentration of individual interest is now recognized as an essential to first class dramatic writing Seymour Obermer author of "The House of Bondage" which Florence Roberts will produce at the Opera House next week in this respect is said to have conceived an ideal play Aside from the role portrayed by Miss Roberts there are three other characters that are of nearly equal prominence in the story These are played by Arthur Forrest Thurlow Bergen and Ann Warrington Others noticeable in Miss Roberts support are Mary Bertrand Kent Bosworth and Harry Gibbs

ZINGARRI SINGERS CHANGE PROGRAM AT MAJESTIC

This is one of the weeks at the Majestic when the seeker after entertainment and relaxation may attend every performance with delight The Zingarri troupe of operatic artists constantly surprise with their varied program of selections from the grand and comic operas The same selections are seldom given twice in succession and Manager Bevan of the troupe stated that his singers were able to give a hundred operas that they could render wholly or in part as they are at present doing Many requests have been made by music lovers to the management of the Majestic to continue the Zingarris another week as they have proven such a rare and delightful treat but this is not possible owing to the demand for the services of the singers by other managers on the circuit who have not as yet enjoyed their appearances

The Zingarris give grand life and animation to each selection that was not thought possible in limited selections Alexander Bevan the basso of the organization makes a fine brigand of much fun making capacity and is called in the sketch of "Gypsy Life" with the background of special scenery depicting the woods of Romandy, the tents, the costumes the tripod on the fire the fallen logs and stumps of trees and the splendid arrangement of lighting effects

O Maria Mari is a delightful bit with a haunting refrain of melody that wins insistent recalls Marcello Hesemini the tenor makes all that is possible out of the bit Ettore Campana has a superb baritone voice and is heard to advantage in the Toreador song from Carmen the effect of which is heightened with the concerted work by the other singers

There are so very few real contraltos upon the operatic stage that the singing of the Misses Alicia Desmond and Lottie Hart seems almost startling and affords infinite delight There are three sopranos with the organization the Misses Harriet Keyes, Stella Burgess and Olive Brown

It seems regrettable that the management of the Majestic can not arrange to hold these artists over for they have attracted to the theater every lover of music and art in the city, and unfortunately there are too few such artists as the Zingarris upon the vaudeville stage

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is no "cure-all" humbug, but is made for just one purpose—to cure the weaknesses, painful disorders and irregularities of the womanly organism. It is

THE ONE REMEDY for these ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and is carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath—thus taking its users into their full confidence, and warranting physicians in prescribing it in their womankind, which they do very largely.

It is foolish as well as dangerous to take medicine the composition of which you know nothing. Therefore, don't let a dishonest druggist prevail on you to accept a secret nostrum for this professionally approved medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. Every ingredient in its make-up has the strongest indorsement of the leading medical men of all the several schools of practice. Send postal card request for free Booklet of same.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that the best medical advice in the world will be given to her, absolutely free.

In addition to this free advice, Dr. Pierce will send a fine French cloth-bound copy of his great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," to any woman who will send 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They work in harmony with "Favorite Prescription" when needed as a gentle laxative. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy

TRADING IN STOCKS IS UNUSUALLY LIGHT

Market Is Almost Barren of Incident. Small Margin in Professional Dealings.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The speculative spirit seems to be in a torpor, and no operations are undertaken in the stock market of any far-reaching significance. The professional dealings which make up the market are of a kind which are closer from one day to another and often in the same day, a profit of a small fraction being sufficient to induce realizations.

Today's market was almost barren of incident. An immediate factor increasing the dull tendency was the approaching double holiday. Dull as was the market, its action did not express an unchearful view of the outlook, the resistance to the early declining tendency, and the later sluggish upward movement, suggesting a tenacious hold on securities by present owners, in spite of the entire disinclination to take on new holdings. Foreign influences were of considerable sentimental effect on the tone, but without giving rise to any actual operations of importance in the market.

Securities and money markets abroad were favorably affected by the developments concerning international relations. The visit of the British sovereigns to Berlin is counted on to soften some of the asperities that have grown up in the feeling between the two nations.

Relief was felt over the action of Bulgaria in the issuance of demobilization orders confirming the restoration of concord growing out of the settlement with Turkey. The agreement between France and Germany over Moroccan affairs was another source of satisfaction. Finally, the further rise in market quotations of Japanese bonds settled any apprehension that might have been caused by more bellicose signs in the Japanese relations with this country. The force of these considerations, and of the relaxing money market in London, was measured in the material advance of 11-16 of a point in the price of British consols. The direction in which these developments have most interest in the New York market is in the relief afforded from the insistent liquidation of foreign holdings of American securities, which has been going on for may months. The relatively high level of the stock prices in New York, the low money rates in comparison with foreign money markets, and the continued advantages in the international exchanges held by this country as a result of heavy excess of value of merchandise exports over imports, have all combined to prompt foreigners to send home our securities as a means to procure relief for their own necessities.

A rise in the London price of copper was made of some influence on the copper industrials. The appearance of E. H. Harriman at a New York Central directors' meeting gave encouragement to hope of his good physical condition.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,000,000. United States 2s, registered, declined ¼ per cent on call.

NEW HIGH LEVEL IS REACHED IN WHEAT

Volume of Business, However Was Not Large, Trading Being Largely Among Professionals.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Although a new high level in wheat prices was reached, the volume of business was not extremely large and trade was not of a general character, but was mainly confined to what are termed "professional" traders. The establishing of the new high market was chiefly the result of purchases by the leading bulls, who, it was claimed, bought approximately 1,500,000 bushels during the last half of the day.

The unusually brisk demand for cash wheat at the principal grain centers of this country was also a strong stimulant to demand for the options. Local cash sales were reported at 115,000 bushels. A decline of ½d to ⅝d at Liverpool had a bearish effect early in the day. During the day the May delivery ranged between $1.10¾ and $1.11⅞ and closed at $1.11⅝. July closed at $1.00¾@¾.

Cold weather in the corn belt had a depressing effect on the corn market. At the close prices were a shade lower to ⅛@⅜ higher, with May at 64¼ and July at 64@64⅛.

Liberal purchases by leading bulls caused a sharp advance in the price of oats, but late in the session the edge was taken off the market by a report from New York which claimed fresh purchases there today of Argentine oats. The market, however, closed firm at net gains of ¼@⅜, with May at 53¼@53⅝ and July at 47¾.

Provisions were quiet and steady. Local packers were moderate sellers, notwithstanding an advance of 17 to 20 cents in the price of live hogs. At the close, prices were unchanged to 2½ lower.

Says Actresses Fail as Wives

From the New York American.

"My experience teaches me that actresses are failures as wives, and that the artistic temperament, on which they blame all their faults, cannot abide in the same house with domestic happiness."

Frederick M. Davidson, who gained public attention as a tenor with the old Bostonians and other operatic companies, made this statement after he had been awarded an absolute divorce from Martha Howard Davidson, singer and actress. Justice Scudder in the supreme court, Brooklyn, granted the decree. John Mackin, who supported James K. Hackett in "The Crisis," was named as corespondent. They were found in a hotel at Asbury Park.
